The healing comforts of home:

Support our new guest house

Help provide the healing comforts of home

Providence Portland Medical Center has become a regional hub of medical care and a center of excellence in cancer treatment. When people from out of town travel to Portland to receive medical care or to be near a loved one receiving care, they often are facing a stressful time in their lives in unfamiliar surroundings.

Finding comfortable, convenient and affordable lodging can pose a challenge. The hospital's few current guest apartments fall far short of the need, turning away hundreds of people every year.

To address the need, Providence Portland Medical Foundation is raising funds for building a new guest house that will provide the comforts of home for out-of-town patients and family members. This guest house, just a block from the hospital, will offer peacefulness and privacy along with opportunities for fellowship and shared healing among guests.

Funded entirely by donations, the new guest house at Providence Portland Medical Center will create a welcoming and comforting environment. The guest house will feature:

- An open, inviting lobby
- 30 private rooms offering single, double and suite accommodations
- A large, homelike common area including a family room with fireplace, a kitchen and a dining room
- A patio offering an outdoor place to gather
- Guest laundry facilities
- Shuttle service to and from the hospital
